GREENPOINT TECHNOLOGIES - AWARDED AEROSPACE COMPANY OF THE YEAR

February 11, 2011

Kirkland, WA

Greenpoint Technologies is the Aerospace Company of the Year according to the Pacific Northwest Aerospace Alliance (PNAA), a non-profit organization geared towards growth and success of the aviation industry in the Pacific Northwest region of the United States.

The Company of the Year Award acknowledges outstanding organizational growth, community involvement, success and innovation. Greenpoint supports an empowered and collegial workforce focused on teamwork and customer satisfaction. Greenpoint employees demonstrate a commitment to teamwork outside the office, by donating time and financial support to community service organizations. To name a few, Greenpoint actively supports the Special Olympics of Washington, Rebuilding Together, Boys and Girls Club of America, Treehouse and Northwest Harvest. In addition, Greenpoint's fifteen (15) year working relationship with a major aircraft OEM is a testimony to the customer-centric culture Greenpoint embraces.

Receiving this award is an honor. Greenpoint President, Scott Goodey, reflects, "At Greenpoint, our primary focus is delivering highly technical, customized programs, on time to spec. Our AS9100 certification and continual improvement methodology is engrained into who we are. As a result, our customers enjoy a superior product with a loyal, hard working group of individuals on their team. To be recognized for what we do and believe in is incredibly gratifying."

Greenpoint continues to perform ahead of schedule, providing BBJ completions and specialized Boeing 747-8 products, the Aeroloft™ and Aerolift.
