Greenpoint Technologies Obtains Aeroloft® EASA STC

Kirkland, Wash. – 5 May 2015 – Greenpoint Technologies, a Zodiac Aerospace Company, recently obtained the first European Aviation Safety Agency (EASA) Supplemental Type Certificate (STC) for the 747-8 Aeroloft® program. This will be the first of four Aeroloft® certifications this year.

“Our close relationship with Boeing and other completion centers allows us to develop state of the art solutions for our VIP customers by providing them with the best in luxury, utility, and safety. Our core business is designing and manufacturing unique interior solutions, and the Aeroloft® is a perfect example of engineering and certification collaboration resulting from customer demand,” affirms Greenpoint CEO Scott Goodey.

The Aeroloft® is a modular product developed specifically for the Boeing VIP 747-8 aircraft. It offers eight private sleeping berths located above the main deck in the aft section of the aircraft, providing a comfortable and relaxing rest area during flight. Passengers use a forward entry staircase at door four to access the Aeroloft®. Greenpoint has four installation certifications scheduled for 2015.
